

AXIS ATTEMPT TO STOP ALLIES CRUSHED

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
Corp. Max Kilgore has learned to like the English people and even tea, but he is anxious to get on with this war so he can come back to Washington, C. H., to pick up the broken threads of normal life among his friends and family.

It is obvious from his weekly letters to his wife that he's glad to be doing his part to whip the Axis and that he doesn't want to come back "till it's over over there," but just the same, his thoughts turn to home and family.

Corp. Kilgore has been in England since last summer with the American forces marking time until the big push is started. He has written his wife that the Yanks get the "very best of food" (he should know for he is one of the hundreds of army cooks). There is plenty of everything, he writes—from soup to nuts with steaks in the middle of the wide variety on the menu. However, there is one exception and if the folks back here in America are complaining about coffee rationing, they might give a thought to the American doughboys, who, although the best fed soldiers in the world, do not even have coffee rations. Corp. Kilgore told his wife in his letters that he has learned to drink tea three times a day just like his English cousins—and like it.

In his last letter to Mrs. Kilgore (233 Chestnut Street) he enclosed a poem. Mrs. Kilgore asked that it be reprinted for other wives of soldiers on foreign battlefields.

FOR HONOUR AND FOR HER!
Somewhere, a woman, thrusting fear away,
Faces the future bravely for your sake;
Toils on from dawn till dark;
from day to day;
Fights back her tears, nor heeds
the bitter ache;
She loves you, trusts you,
breathes in prayer your name;
Soil not her faith in you, by sin or shame.

Somewhere a woman—mother, sweetheart, wife—
Waits betwixt hopes and fears for your return;
Her kiss, her words, will cheer
you in the strife,
When death itself confronts
you, grim and stern;
But let her image all your reverence claim,
When base temptations scorch
you with their flame.

Somewhere a woman watches—filled with pride;
Shrined in her heart, you share
a place with none,
She toils, she waits, she prays,
till side by side
You stand together when the battle's done
O keep for her dear sake a stainless name.
Bring back to her a manhood
free from shame.

ONLY 812 WAR BABIES IN OHIO—NO PROBLEM

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—(AP)—War babies—infants born while their fathers are in the armed services—present no problem in Ohio, says State Health Director R. H. Markwith.

Reporting on a three-month survey conducted to determine the number of Ohio soldiers encountering family responsibilities, Dr. Markwith said that of 33,871 babies born in the state during May, June and July, only 812 had soldier daddys.

BIG NEW ARMY AIRFIELD TO BE BUILT IN KENTUCKY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—An army airfield will be built at Sturgis, Ky., adjacent to Camp Breckinridge, Senator Chandler's (D-Ky.) secretary said today.

The aide said the war department had informed him that the field would cost "in excess of $2,000,000" and be under supervision of the Louisville office of the corps of engineers.

MEATLESS DAYS WARREN, Nov. 7—(AP)—Meatless days will be observed here beginning next week. Hotels and restaurants will serve vegetable dinners on Wednesday. Housewives have been asked to serve meatless meals.

POLITICAL FIGHT IN CONGRESS IS NOW SHAPING UP

Republicans Reject Idea of Coalition with Democrats
Opposed to New Deal

COMMITTEES TO HOLD KEY

Militant Minority Gets Set
To Use Stronger Hand
In Legislation

By JACK BELL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Republicans, generally rejecting the idea of a coalition with anti-administration Democrats, counted today on taking a stronger hand in the next congress in the affairs of committees which do much of the real work on legislation.

Realignment of Senate committees on the basis of a prospective 57 to 39 division, set up between the majority and minority as a result of Tuesday's balloting, may have a far-reaching effect on the course of important legislation in that body.

In the House, however, some Democrats indicated they might resist demands for an increase in Republican representation on committees, now fixed on the basis of three Democrats for each two Republicans.

With their increased numerical strength falling slightly short of a majority, the minority party would be entitled to almost equal representation. But the Democrats contended that this ratio was ignored by the Republicans when they controlled the House in the last days of the Hoover administration.

NO MORE FELICITATIONS TO BE SENT BY TELEGRAPH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—The board of war communications today ordered telegraph companies to refuse felicitation and congratulatory messages and to discontinue all non-telegraphic services beginning December 15 in a series of steps to gear the domestic telegraphic industry more closely to the war effort.

A small commercial shipment of tin has been produced in California since the war cut off Malayan supplies.

BANK BANDITS BEATEN BY EMPLOYEES AS COPS CRASH DOOR TO NAB 'EM

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6—(AP)—Five policemen crashed into a bank yesterday to thwart a holdup; then had to rescue two gunmen from enraged bank employees.

The officers drove their cruiser through the locked doors of the General National Bank and, without firing a shot, captured the two men, who were armed with four pistols each and a shotgun.

The pair was identified by police as Nick Venter, 24, and Fred Ector, 20.

The employees—six women and four men—who had been bound, gagged and roughly treated by the gunmen, then attacked them and broke Ector's nose.

The officers' job of quieting the employees took longer than their capture of the would-be robbers and saving $63,000 in the vault.

PAY INCREASES ARE TABOO NOW

Wages and Salaries Frozen
At Mid-September Levels
On Government Order

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Realization that an "early freeze" had stunted growth of their pay envelopes last Sept. 15 dawned on the nation's workers today as they were confronted with the strict terms of a new wage-salary stabilization order issued by the war labor board.

Empowered by President Roosevelt's Oct. 3 economic stabilization order, the WLB virtually froze most wages and salaries under $5,000-a-year at the mid-September levels, and chairman William H. Davis served notice it would be "pretty damn tough" to break the ice.

Adopted unanimously by the public, labor and industry members of the board, the order affected all non-agricultural wages and salaries under $5,000, except salaries paid supervisory or professional employees. Farm wages come under the agriculture department's jurisdiction and the treasury controls other salaries.

TRAINS RUN AGAIN UNDER ARMY GUARD

Strike Brings Quick Action to Resume Service

PAINESVILLE, Nov. 7—(AP)—United States troops guarded the right of way of the strike-bound Fairport, Painesville and eastern railroad today and their commander, Col. J. C. Daly, said that the line would resume quickly the transportation of war materials.

"The government has stepped in," Colonel Daly said. "The plants along this line are important to the war effort."

The railroad runs 3 1/2 miles from Fairport to Painesville, connecting at Painesville with the New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio roads. The small line, with six locomotives, serves plants of Diamond Alkali Co., Diamond Magnesium Co., and Industrial Rayon Corp.

GENOA IS BLASTED FROM AIR AGAIN

LONDON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Britain's big, home-based bombers revisited Italy last night for the fifth time since late October, showering Genoa with fire and explosives which, by the Italians' own word, inflicted "notable damage" on Italy's most important supply port for the Axis armies in North Africa.

The Air Ministry called the attack "concentrated and effective" and the Italian communiqué itself said that "particular damage" was reported in the center of the town, and in the eastern part notable damage was caused.

Russian Offense Is Promised By Stalin To Drive Out Nazis

MOSCOW, Nov. 7—(AP)—The Russians celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution today with encouraging reports from defense fronts and the assurance by Premier Stalin that new Soviet counterblows soon would fall upon Hitler's battle-depleted armies.

"We can and must clear the Hitlerite filth from our Soviet soil," Stalin declared in an order of the day.

While tension mounts in the fighting zones, the war leader said, the Soviet people have emerged from their trials with honor "and we are filled with an unshakable faith in victory."

He said more than 8,000,000 invaders already had been put out of action and that the day was not far off when the German legions "watered down with Rumanians, Hungarians, Italians and Finns"—would feel the fresh Red army blows.

WAR WORK TIED UP BY DETROIT STRIKE

Jurisdictional Dispute Puts
8,000 Off Job

DETROIT, Nov. 7—(AP)—An estimated 7,000 to 8,000 employees of the tool and die industry were idle today in Detroit's most serious war work tieup.

A "labor holiday" called last night by the Mechanics Educational Society of America, independent union, closed three large plants and several smaller tool shops. Intervention by the Army and Navy was sought by the managements.

The mechanics society, strongest group within the recently organized Confederated Unions of America, charged that members of the CIO's United Automobile Workers had interfered with organizational activities of the society.

CAPTURED ITALIAN OFFICERS PEEVED

CAIRO, Nov. 7—(AP)—Two high-ranking Italian officers captured in the Egyptian desert fumed and fretted today because, they explained to their British captors, they were sent to the front as observers of British methods and not as combatants.

"This is an outrage," one of them complained. "We were not fighting, we were just looking."

Overwhelming of German and Italian armies on the desert of North Africa by the British Eighth Army has been largely a matter of careful planning, utmost co-operation by air and ground forces, huge supplies of equipment and fighting courage. The manner in which the Axis forces turn tail is illustrated by the photos above. Allied planes have blasted Axis troop and tank concentrations, supply dumps and ships. Brilliant planning by Gen. Sir Harold Alexander and his field commander, Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, was culminated by the smashing assaults by ground forces on the enemy defenses. Advances of the Allies can be traced on the accompanying map.

The Italian command devoted only one brief paragraph to the struggle.

"The fight continued yesterday, in the region east of Matruh. Violent Axis counterattacks caused heavy losses to enemy armored columns."

Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's field headquarters said British troops were mopping up "abandoned Italian divisions," left behind by the fleeing German Panzers, in the southern sector of the battle area.

Meanwhile, speculation arose on the possibility of an Allied sea-borne thrust to block the escape of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered forces.

The German radio reported that a large Allied convoy from Gibraltar was steaming through the Mediterranean on a mysterious mission, and Axis circles conjectured that they might be sailing for some point in Africa—perhaps to make a landing on the Libyan coast.

Frontline dispatches said the disordered mass of Rommel's army, in headlong flight along the Mediterranean coast, was offering little resistance and was not even in fighting formation.

Wave after wave of low-flying American, British and Allied planes were reported strafing and bombing the enemy "west of Matruh," churning their tanks to prevent any attempt to regroup.

In other key theaters of the war, the news continued to be good:

RUSSIA—Soviet headquarters reported that the Red armies drove the Germans from two fortified positions in the 75-day old siege of Stalingrad and held firmly from the Arctic to the deep Caucasus against Nazi attempts to crack the defense lines.

SOLOMON ISLANDS—U. S. Army troops and Marines were officially credited with beating off strong Japanese attacks on Guadalcanal, frustrating enemy attempts to recapture ground won by American offensive thrusts.

NEW GUINEA—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied troops driving back across the 120-mile-wide Papua Peninsula had met suddenly stiffened Japanese resistance, and a fierce battle was raging 50 miles south of the enemy's coastal base at Buna.

Britain's victorious Egyptian armies were reported to have captured or trapped 100,000 German and Italian troops today, crushed a desperate Axis attempt to rally and swept 100 miles across the desert nearly halfway to the Libyan frontier.

More than two-thirds of the total Axis forces of 140,000 troops were said to have been eliminated from the battle, with the British in swift pursuit of the broken enemy.

A British communique said 20,000 Axis troops had already been captured, along with 350 tanks and 400 guns. Six Italian divisions were reported cut off, without food or water, meekly waiting to surrender.

The crack Italian Trieste and Bologna divisions were reported among the beleaguered Fascists waiting to be picked up when the British could get around to them.

"The advance of the Eighth Army continues," British headquarters announced.

Latest dispatches said British armored columns had pushed beyond Matruh, 104 miles west of the old El Alamein battlefield and nearly halfway to the Libyan frontier.

While British reports pictured the Germans as retreating west of Matruh, Nazi field headquarters asserted that the battle was continuing with "great fierceness" east of the coastal town.

The Italian command devoted only one brief paragraph to the struggle.

WHS Lions Beat Bexley By One Point

Columbus Team Scores as Gun Ends the Game

But Pass for Extra Point That Would Have Averted Defeat
Knocked Down—Joe Tillet Dashes 30 Yards for Most Spectacular Run of Game—Perce Mann's Toe Is Difference Between Victory and Defeat

Those mighty mites in the blue and white of Washington C. H. High School won, by a score of 14 to 13, their seventh game of the season and the sixth in a row at Gardner Park here Friday night from the big and powerful Bexley team when Joe Tillet knocked down a Bexley pass for the extra point after the gun had cracked ending the game.

The WHS victory was in the nature of an upset. It was the first defeat of the season for the Bexley boys and the second they had suffered in the last two years, both at the hands of the Washington C. H. gridders who mopped up their unblemished record last season with a 13 to 7 beating.

The WHS Lions literally came within an ace of losing their victory.

In the closing seconds and with Bexley's boys knocking at the door after an aerial attack had brought them clear down the field, Spencer dropped back and heaved another pass to Plank in the north corner of the field. The gun cracked, ending the game, with the ball in the air, but the star end and captain of the Bexley team snatched it as he stood on the goal line and was smacked to the ground on pay dirt. With only a single point needed by the Bexleyites to avert defeat and get a tie and the same slim margin standing between the WHS Lions and victory, the crowd went wild and surged to the sidelines.

Under the rules of the game, the Bexley boys got their chance for the extra point although the game had ended when the ball was touchdown bound. A substitute was rushed from the Bexley bench to make the try. Their passes had been clicking and they staked their fate on them to the end rather than attempt the customary place kick. The ball was snapped back and the pass went sailing toward the south corner with Barrett, the Bexley right end waiting, with arms outstretched, to receive it. From out of nowhere, flashed Joe Tillet. He leaped high into the air and smacked the ball to the ground. The game was over. The Lion lightweights had done it again and the home town fans went wild.

The WHS Blue Lions received the opening kickoff from Bexley on their own 30 yard line and marched right down the field where Shoultz finally went over on a sweep around end to score the Lions' first touchdown from about the one half yard line. Mann converted the extra point and the Lions took the lead with a 7-0 score.

In the second quarter, Bexley had the ball and was on the march. A series of completed passes took them down to the Lions 14 yard line where Barnes carried the ball over for a tally. Plank's placement for the extra point was good and the game was tied up at 7-7.

During the third quarter both teams alternately hit brick walls without any successive gains.

The fourth quarter brought the thrills and chills to the 2,500 fans huddled in the stands who yelled and cheered for both teams.

On the first play of the fourth period, Tillet took the ball from center and slashed off his own right tackle, then cut back to the left and raced 30 yards like a rabbit in a briar patch right through the whole Bexley team over to the sidelines and into the corner across the line for a touchdown to give the gathering of Dads of the WHS Lions the thrill they had been waiting for.

Perce Mann, whose muddy kicking toe saved the game for the WHS boys, booted the ball right through the middle of the uprights for the extra point.

In desperation, the Bexleyites opened up with a brilliant passing attack, hoping to at least avert a defeat in the closing minutes of play. Twice it was broken up when Captain Bob Allen, the WHS center, intercepted spot passes tossed over the line. But, they were not to be denied and they tried and tried again, advancing steadily down the field with by far the smoothest aerial game the WHS boys have had to cope with this season. With only seconds to go, the Spencer to Plank combination worked but the WHS Lions claimed the victory on the post-mortem play by knocking down the ball.

The WHS win admittedly came as something of an upset. For, Bill Curry, one of the keystones of the line was out with a shoulder injury. Don Harper, who filled his shoes also plugged the hole against the charging Bexleyites. Little Ira Jarnigan, who gave Dick Kelley time out frequently to nurse his old injuries, was a thorn in the side of the attackers, too.

One of sport's most exclusive organizations will have a reunion at the Princeton-Dartmouth game today. It's the "blizzard men of '35." Membership is limited to 22 players on the field and the volunteer from the stands who helped make that snowbound game memorable.

Wilmington Wins Second Game of Year

The Wilmington Hurricane won its second game of the season from the weak Franklin footballers by a score of 40 to 13 in a rough and tumble game. About 800 gathered for the annual Dad's Night.

Peterson made two touchdowns for Wilmington, Daniel made two and Scott and Hamilton one each. Angel and Waites scored Franklin's touchdowns.

Wilmington treated the crowd to long-scoring plays in the last period when a pass, Copeland to Daniel, was good for 80 yards and a touchdown. Shortly afterward, Scott made a 60 yard run for another.

Wilmington made 13 first downs, Franklin 9.

Ram Line Smasher Made into Passer

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7—(AP)—Followers of the Cleveland Rams have always known Gaylon Smith as a line smasher, but they'll see him in a new role Sunday afternoon when the Rams collide with the Green Bay Packers at the stadium.

With Indian Jack Jacobs now in the air corps, Smith has been shifted from fullback on the starting backfield to left half on the No. 2 combination and will be called upon to share the passing chores with Parker Hall, the team's only triple threat.

Conversion of Smith to a left half will move Len Janiak to the starting fullback post.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

U. S. Bluejackets and Marines are now issued self-inflating life belts to add to their protection on the high seas. These belts wrap comfortably about the waist and during less dangerous periods can be worn deflated. It only takes a second to insert a small gas cartridge which inflates the belt.

These cartridges look much like the "sparklets" which we use in a seltzer bottle. The same carbon dioxide gas is used for inflating the life belts. Your purchase of War Bonds will aid in providing this new measure of safety for our Sailors and Marines and for the boys who go across on our convoy ships. 21-Game Card Given Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—(AP)—A brilliant and air offensive demonstration, by which Western Reserve handed the second defeat of the season to Ohio University, served as a prelude to today's 21-game program involving Ohio college football teams.

Scoring in every period except the third, Reserve downed John Fekete and Co., 20 to 7, in Cleveland last night. It was the fourth straight win for the Red Cats.

Fekete, star left halfback for the Athens squad, figured in the one Ohio U. touchdown drive in the third period, but otherwise was bottled up.

The Red Cats scored in the first period on a combination of running plays and passes by Bill Dewalt, in the second on three passes by Warren Lehr and in the fourth on running plays.

In the only other game last night, Capital University dropped a 24-14 decision to the Miami University Naval Radio Cadets at Hamilton. Paul Platz, former Southern California freshman, passed to halfback Jim Buell for two Cadet touchdowns and ran 32 yards for another.

Sharing honors with the Ohio State-Pittsburgh clash at Columbus today is the meeting of Denison and Wooster at Wooster, with Denison's leadership in the Ohio Conference at stake. The game is a renewal of the state's oldest football rivalry.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 7—(AP)—Portsmouth High School grid-ers played two 12-minute periods with two different teams last night, beating Portsmouth East 12-0 in the first half of the twin bill and nosing out Portsmouth Central Catholic, 7-6, in the second.

Fayette County Shepherd's Club

There is a rather good market for fat wether, in the various cities. Evidently the people down under have been educated to the value of good mutton. Sheep bought to be fattened for market are called "stores." Most of the fat lambs are raised in the River Murray where irrigation is practiced and in sections near the large cities where the rainfall is generally higher and the markets closer at hand.

Even in Australia the sheepmen have their troubles as well as in this country and they are constantly experimenting and investigating new preventions and cures to produce better market sheep.

Do not forget the next lamb pool on November 12. While the Shepherd's Club has felt it patriotic duty to discontinue regular meetings for the duration the organization is very much alive and interested in all sheep problems in the county. They are backing more than ever the lamb pools being held on the 2nd and 4th Friday of each month. Lambs are selling at a very good price and Fayette County farmers should be realizing a nice profit on this part of their livestock.

Remember the lamb pool and get those lambs in. Be careful that they do not get wet just before bringing them into market.

Speaking of outstanding players, here are some bouquets for some Washington C. H. team members. Bob Allen, the Lion's captain, played a good game and helped the team along when he intercepted two passes in the last quarter which added some excitement to the game. However, his work took the Lions down toward the goal line but they finally had to punt. Don Harper, who was playing for Bill Curry Friday night, showed some exceptional blocking and tackling on those plays and helped hold those Bexley Lions back. Johnny Anderson, Joe Tillet, Marilyn Engle and Pershing Mann also played some good ball along with the rest of the team. However, these boys mentioned are all Seniors at WHS and have only one more game left to play for the school.

Paul Pennington took over the announcer job Friday night because of the illness of Clyde Cramer, the regular one, and did a swell job. He explained the game to the fans like a "veteran" and the fans were well satisfied with the announcing. Paul was at the high school Friday morning and being an old cheer leader himself, he led the students in a few yells which really made the WHS auditorium ring.

Greenfield Wins from Hillsboro

The Greenfield Tigers trampled the Hillsboro Indians Friday night at Greenfield when they downed them by a score of 22 to 0.

Greenfield's first tally came on a pass from Davis to Payne. Their second was another pass from Davis to Newell and the last when Penwell ran the ball over the line. Davis kicked two extra points and when Hillsboro was grounded in their own end zone by the Tigers, they scored the two points on a safety.

Washington C. H., Circleville and Greenfield are now in the running for first place position in the South Central League although the Washington C. H. Lions are in undisputed first place.

The WHS Blue Lions beat Greenfield, 20 to 13, and Hillsboro, 20 to 0, earlier in the season.

Circleville Wins, 6 to 0; Lions Next

The Circleville Tigers, the Washington C. H. Blue Lions' next foe, won a victory over the Grove City eleven on a wet field at Circleville Friday night by a score of 6 to 0.

A second-period touchdown pass from Heath to Bach, gave the Tigers their only score of the evening but they held the Grove City team down.

The Tigers have lost only one game this year, to Greenfield, and this game was played without Shea and Smallwood, their stars. It has been said that Smallwood will not be able to play against Washington C. H. because he is in bed with intestinal flu.

Grove City threatened as the time ran out, moving 84 yards on passes. They started at the one yard line.

Robinson Wins From Dellicurti

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP)—Having come out of his second invasion of the middleweight division with an easy victory over Vic Dellicurti, welterweight Ray Robinson agreed today to two more fights this year—one in his own class and one in 160-pound competition.

The first of these will be December 1, a return match with Izzy Jannazzo of Brooklyn, whom Robinson outpointed recently in Philadelphia.

The other will be in Philadelphia, December 14, probably against Jose Basora, a sharp punching Puerto Rican middleweight.

Robinson weighed 144½ to Dellicurti's 153¾.

Buck Yearlings Boost Hopes of Ohio Grid Fans

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—(AP)—Ohio State football fans yesterday got a preview—and a favorable one—of the talent coming up for next year's varsity should the war permit continuance of the inter-collegiate gridiron sport.

With Tommy Phillips of Berea hurling sharp passes, Russell Wolfe of Upper Sandusky spinning and shifting on nice runs and Joe Whisler of Willard pounding the opposing line the Buck frosh beat Pittsburgh's freshmen 18 to 7.

It was the first time Ohio State ever had put a freshmen team on the field for a regular contest and 2,298 fans saw plenty of Buck punch in the tilt at Ohio Stadium.

Phillips' passes were right on the beam to his receivers and only one was intercepted, that by an Ohioan, George Watson of Hubbard. He ran it back for 48 years and almost got away for a touchdown.

Whisler contributed Ohio's longest scoring run, breaking over center and weaving his way for 31 yards in the first period to open the scoring. Sub end Henry Parman of Dayton got the other touchdown in the last period by running 15 yards after taking a 10-yard pass from Tom Jefferies of Youngstown.

Louis Groza, the Martins Ferry place-kicking star, gave the Buck fans something to cheer about when he booted field goals from the 18 and 33 yard yard lines to account for six Ohio points.

Frank Knisley of Youngstown, Pittsburgh starting fullback, suffered a broken left arm on the third play of the game.

Lion Fathers Given Thrill On Gridiron

The team members' fathers were honored at the football game between Washington C. H. and Bexley and the sons really put on a show that can be remembered.

The fathers and sons marches on the field before the game and were introduced to the fans by WHS Principal W. F. Rettig.

The following fathers, and representatives of the boys were guests at the game: Stan Mark, Herman Sword, Gene Tillet, Fred Kelly, Bill Anderson, Walter Engle, William Dawes, Everett Harper, Wilbur Mann, Floyd Mitchell, William Allen, Bill Curry, Omar Schwartz, Charles Rudduck, A. B. Murray, James Christman, James Wackman, Robert Craig, Fred Rost, George Miraben, Paul Fitzwater and Clifford Shoultz.

The boys showed their fathers just what they could do and most of them were satisfied with their son's performance.

'INVISIBLE GREENBACKS'

Many an American may wonder why the government doesn't finance the war almost entirely by borrowing from the banks. All that would be needed is for the Treasury to make arrangements, through the Federal Reserve System, for the banks to buy all the notes and securities the government issued.

The truth is, of course, that this kind of financing would be the surest known road to inflation—and to a national fiscal debacle which would be as ruinous as military defeat in war. For, as Harry Scherman recently wrote in a Saturday Evening Post article, "The catastrophic German inflation of the twenties had its beginning in just such government-borrowing-from-banks."

The reason for this is that when the banks buy government bonds, they create new bank deposits. That, in turn, creates what Mr. Scherman terms "invisible greenbacks." The total money supply is rapidly increased, precisely as if the printing presses were turned loose to grind out bills. And when that happens, the volume of purchasing power runs ever farther ahead of the volume of goods available, and a disastrous inflation becomes inevitable.

The banks are doing a big job in this war. They will continue to do a big job in a thousand important financial fields. But, if we are to preserve our economic system and the integrity of our currency, the great bulk of war costs must be paid for by all the people. They must be paid for, in part, by taxes. In addition, they must be paid for by the heaviest possible individual investment in Government Bonds.

That is why the Treasury is attempting to vastly increase public bond purchasing—and that is why economists of all schools are supporting the Treasury policy. To quote Mr. Scherman once more, "Cold arithmetic leads to the simple sober ultimate truth: that only our personal savings can now save our civilization." No one, in short, can do the paying for us. This is all the people's war.

SAVE OUR RIGHTS

Warning that representative government in this country is endangered by "the development of dictatorial methods," Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, cautioned the opening session of directors of the federation not to "let this great war emergency blind you to your responsibility to see that our representative form of government is preserved."

"We are fighting to preserve ourselves," Mrs. Whitehurst told the directors, "even though we did not want to do

Today's Horoscope

Much domestic happiness and some social gaiety are promised those who are celebrating birthdays today. Sudden and unexpected business troubles brought about by hasty judgments and decisions are also in store for them. They are impetuous folk, lack patience, have sharp tempers and a fondness for change. They are ambitious, however, and their judgment is sound, but they must learn to apply themselves to the projects at hand. The child who is born on this date will be of a somewhat paradoxical nature—very good-natured but exceedingly quick-tempered—shrewd in business, liberal in private life.

Hints on Etiquette

"Dunking" is never permissible in public, according to rules of etiquette.

Horoscope for Sunday

An artistic nature, which seeks beauty, harmony and luxury, characterizes people who have birthdays today. They are conscientious, dependable and mentally shrewd. They have a talent for music, and their feelings run deep. Social and or love affairs will be to the fore this year, but these people are warned not to be rash or indiscreet in speech, writings or actions. Born on this date a child will be of an amorous disposition, trusting, generous, sympathetic, popular and fortunate, but hasty and impetuous when roused. Musical skill is foretold.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Japan wasn't such an unpleasant country to live in, in the days just before the last World War. It must have been unpleasant up to a few years previously, for a period of about seven centuries, for its military class, the so-called shogunate, ran it then, and that, from all accounts, including those I have heard from some of the more civilized type of Japs themselves, was about history's meanest outfit on earth.

It gradually died a kind of a natural death, just why I never could certainly ascertain, around the middle of the 1800's, and when I sojourned there, at the time the Sun Yat Sen revolution was progressing in China, the nation was fairly democratic.

It isn't popular to say so at present, but a Jap, unidentified with the military group, frequently is an extremely nice, accommodating chap, and so I found 'em, among the newspaper men I met, and their fellow natives to whom they introduced me. To this minute, war and all, I can't shake off a kindly feeling for my old friends there.

The shogunate, however, is re-establishing itself. I suppose the war gives it its opportunity. Tokyo wireless broadcasts tell the story, and, in this instance, Tokyo information obviously is reliable.

It isn't inexplicable. Jap militarism, vicious as it is, is efficient, and war-time efficiency naturally is in demand everywhere today.

The shogunate isn't numerically considerable but it's compact, and, when it acts, it does so vigorously—phenomenally so. It picked Gen. Hideki Tojo for the Tokyo premiership and boosted him into it in short order. Emperor Hirohito frequently is mentioned as having lined his country up with the Axis. That, of course, is because it's convenient so to refer to him in news dispatches. In fact he probably has no more influence in the dictation of Jap policies than a rickshaw coolie.

I'm not so sure that a rickshaw coolie or the ordinary Jap enjoys participation in the current conflict. These chaps run all the risks and can't figure on any of the possible profits. Hirohito, personally, may feel the same way about it, but it's a cinch that he isn't consulted. To say that he's a governmental figurehead is to express it mildly. The actual authority is the shogunate's, with General Tojo, so to speak, as the president of it. Well, what makes the shogunate, numerically so small, so influential?

The answer is that the shogunate's custom when opposed, is to appoint a committee to drop in on the opponent to any one of its vital plans and assassinate him. It isn't exactly fair to refer to it precisely as an assassination, for it's more in the nature of an execution. It's extra-judicial but it's a Japanese custom.

Well, Premier Tojo, the Jap radio relates, has just been reorganizing the Tokyo government along shogunate lines.

It's military but it's also internal.

I'm curious to watch how Japan will react to it.

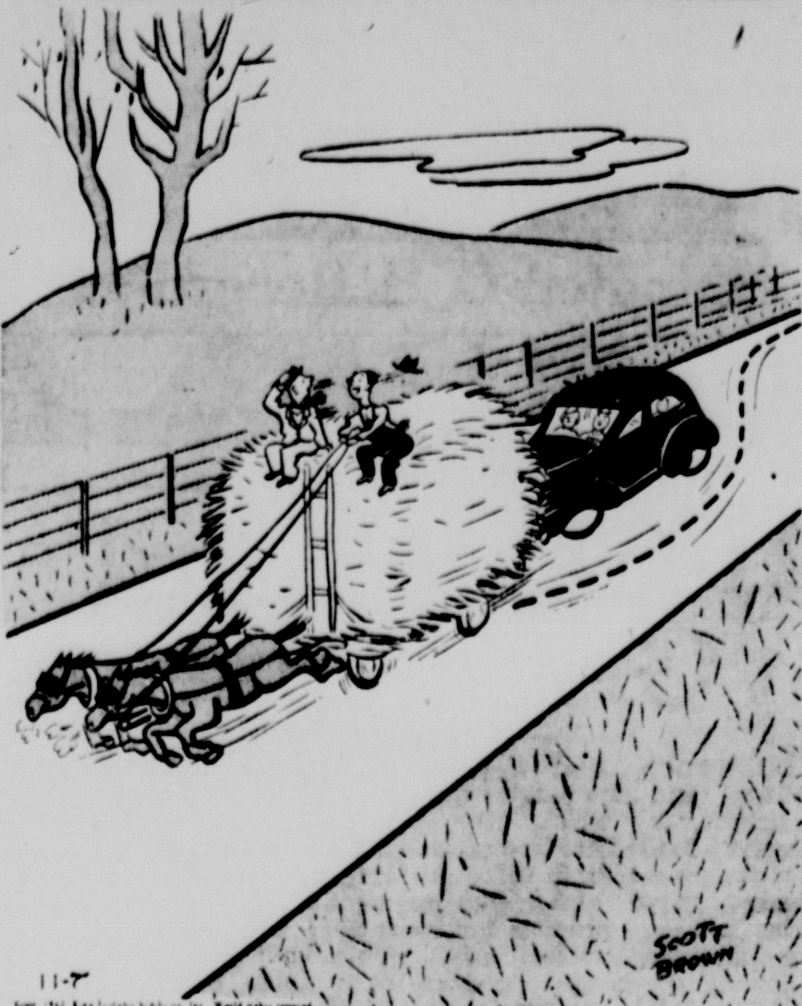

Herr Hitler got away with his German reorganization and it sticks, up to date. Signor Mussolini's Italian reorganization shows signs of frizzling out very rapidly.

How about General Tojo's re-establishment of the shogunate? Can Hideki guarantee its semi-permanency, like Adolf, or will it presently fizzle out like Benito's Fascist program?

My own observation is that the shogunate will die fighting. Internally, more resolutely in Japan than Nazism will in Germany or Fascism in Italy because the shoguns are more complete cuckoo than the Fascist or Nazi leaders are.

A Fascist can be convinced, a Nazi can be licked. A shogun can be slaughtered only.

How To Keep the Muscles Fit for Use in Wartime

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TODAY WE deal with the third of the three main points in any program to keep fit in wartime: (1) mental hygiene and (2) nutrition we considered in the last two articles. Now, the muscles. I use the word "muscles" for the whole vegetative system—the circulation, respiration and digestion—all the lower and somatic functions of the body. They will all be benefited, however, if the muscles are used. Exercise strengthens the heart, improves the wind and digestion, and helps any tendency to stasis or constipation.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Effects of Training

Muscular training unquestionably improves efficiency. Training does this:

The muscles gain in strength and size and endurance. Coordination is improved. Needless movements are eliminated.

The heart gains in strength and size, and the heart beat becomes slower.

The blood pressure is, on the average, lower in the well-trained man.

"Training," writes Bainbridge, "leads to increase of power and economy of effort and the well-trained man is better equipped at almost every point to perform work than the untrained man. Nor are the advantages conferred by training purely physical, since the sense of strength and well-being which it usually engenders, colors and reacts upon the individual's outlook and action as a whole."

There is no real danger that we will not get enough exercise, at least in the way of walking this year, if we conform to the rules. The gasoline restriction and rubber shortage may save many a citizen's life and preserve his efficiency another decade.

Twenty-two births are reported for Fayette County during the month of October.

Mrs. Peter Liscandro and daughter, Anna, arrived in New York today, from the island of Sicily and Italy, aboard the steamer "Conte Grande."

Flocks of wild geese pass over city on flight south.

Mercury slides to 19 degrees, for the lowest reading of the autumn.

Blue and White to battle Wilmington here Friday as feature game of season.

For those in the fifties and sixties, male and female, bowling is universally recommended by the authorities. It is a mild exercise, but uses a good many muscles, both arms and legs and back, and teaches coordination and control. It is a good sign that bowling has increased in popularity so in the last few years. Besides, it has good competitive and social features.

Calisthenics and setting-up exercises I do not recommend for the very good reason that they are dull, that nobody keeps them up. In the morning is a poor time for calisthenics because your vitality is low, and before bedtime they wake you up.

You may be able before long to prove the old adage that the outside of a horse is good for the inside of a man.

Finally, never exercise beyond the point of exhaustion.

A. D. J.:—What effect does taking too much insulin have?

Answer: Anyone who takes too much insulin knows it right away because it causes violent trembling and sweating and weakness. These symptoms are instantly relieved by eating a lump of sugar.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

MARY LEFT the F. B. I. office in a daze. Danver had ignored her first, easy consent to work secretly for the F. B. I.

"I don't want you to decide hurriedly," he told her. "In fact, you must think it over tomorrow and give me your answer Monday morning."

He then proceeded to give her a full, almost brutal picture of the possibilities of discomfort, physical danger, even death in the assignment she would be undertaking. As he talked, he watched Mary closely. She was wide-eyed, her breath coming in quick, excited little gasps.

"Have you ever faced actual danger?" he asked coldly.

"No," Mary admitted. "And I'm not brave. I've often wondered what I'd do if I were actually looking into the muzzle of a gun."

"You're honest, anyway," Danver acknowledged. "Well, I've told you the best and the worst that may happen. Report back here Monday morning for honorable dismissal or your next assignment."

Mary thanked him and walked slowly from the office and down the corridor of the administration building. A hand closed on her arm. She looked up with a start—into the somber smile of Bruce Martin.

"You're walking in your sleep, Redhead," he smiled, but his black eyes were searching her face intently. "Have you been on the carpet again?" I'll break that guy's neck, so help me!"

Mary hid her consternation under a quick laugh. "Can't a person walk through the administration building without everyone thinking they've been in the F. B. I. offices?" she demanded.

"They can't," Bruce said with a grin. "Ask anybody what I'm doing here and they'll soon tell you. He turned and walked along with her, more nervously talkative than she had ever known him. "As a matter of fact, I am called in again," he told her. "And if there's one more argument, I'm quitting as of the moment."

Mary stopped and swung around in alarm. "No!" she cried. "Oh, no! You can't quit, Bruce! You mustn't!"

He regarded her with sullen surprise. "Why not?"

For the first time he saw the flash of exasperation in her green eyes.

"You know why not as well as I do!" she snapped. "If you leave now—under a shadow—just for the sake of a few minutes' satisfaction in telling off Mr. Danver—"

"Wow!" Bruce Martin backed off in mock. "I'm comestible when some people get spontaneous."

"I'll remember that," he promised with a leer, and Mary laughed with him.

"And look," she said, serious again, "don't get discouraged. Bruce. It's going to work out. I know it!"

Before Bruce could answer, she had slipped around the corner of the corridor and disappeared. He stood looking after her. "Well!" he exclaimed.

Mary went alone to church that Sunday morning. She sat in the mellow light of the edifice and watched the shafts of sunshine find their way through the stained-glass windows and listened to the services. She drank in thirstily the triumphant paean of joy that was the choir's morning anthem, and the firm, courageous conviction in the minister's words. She moved out again into the bright morning refreshed, her troubled mind at rest, not as to whether she would take the dangerous assignment—her decision in that had never faltered—but as to her own strength.

A young man was waving from his car, stopped momentarily at the traffic light.

"Ken!" Mary ran down the church steps and slipped into the seat beside him. He closed the door and the car moved on as traffic started again.

"I worked overtime again last night and didn't get a chance to call you," he said. "Went around to the apartment this morning and Fran said to pick you up here. Good sermon?"

"Tops," Mary answered serenely. "All about David girding up his loins and going out to fight. Sometimes I think ministers are psychic."

Ken cocked a brown eyebrow at her. "What do you mean?"

She laughed. "I mean it was just what the doctor ordered."

"You going to fight somebody?" She laughed again, careless, teasing. "It's an uncertain world, my friend—very uncertain. It is well, sometimes, to gird up the loins on the fists, and in all ways measure thy strength against uncertain odds and adversaries."

"I'm going to take you home to Fran," said Ken, "before you get violent."

They found Fran and Burke stretched on easy chair and couch immersed in the funnies. Fran called, "Hi, kids!" and lowered the colored comic section to reveal red-rimmed eyes!

Mary dropped her hat and purse on a chair, too amazed for even an exclamation. Fran—who never cried!

Fran caught her stunned look and grinned reassuringly. "It's nothing to worry about, chickadee," she said. "Just my love life."

Burke lowered his paper and looked at Ken and Mary with guilty appeal, but said nothing.

Ken turned to Mary. "Maybe we ought to go out and ride around the block."

"Can't you take a little punishment?" demanded Fran. "If I can survive under his cruel sense of humor, you ought to be able to. Burke's joined the Navy!"

"What?"

Burke broke in on Ken and Mary's cries with attempted explanation. "Fran, I told you why I did it. I—"

"Enlisted!" shouted Fran. "Just went down and enlisted! Didn't talk it over with me—"

"What if I had!" Burke yelled. "What would you have said?"

"I'd have said, 'No! That's what I'd have said. You couldn't even wait till our picture was shot! Just because the Japs sink a couple of our ships—'"

"A couple!" Burke cried furiously. "A battleship and three cruisers and one torpedo boat!"

"So now Admiral Burke's going out as a one-man flotilla!"

Fran got up, threw the comic section into a crumpled ball at her feet. "All right," she said bitterly. "Go on! Go get blown as high as the guy in the movie last night! But get out of here now! I don't want to look at your ugly mug any longer!"

Burke took his long legs off the ottoman and stood up. "Okay, skipper," he said quietly, and started for the door. Fran put her arms around his neck as he started past her, and sobbed on his chest.

"It was—a pretty swell thing to do, honey!" she moaned jerkily. "I'm awful—proud of you! I'd planned to take it—big when it came. I didn't do so hot, did I?"

Burke winked over her shoulder at Ken and Mary. "Sure you did, Funnyside," he consoled her. "You took it like a soldier."

Fran sniffed back a sob. "Wooden soldier, eh?" She wiped her eyes on his tie. "Burned up."

Mary and Ken slipped out to the kitchen. As they waited for the other two to join them, Mary's assurance of the morning wavered. How would she behave when HER testing began?

They Can Take It When They Have To

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(Wide World News Service)

NEW YORK — Liverpool's chief medical officer, Dr. William M. Frazier, is here on a health mission and he brings a story about the imperviousness of human health to bombing that would have been incredible before the war.

Liverpool took terrific bombings. But there weren't even any outbreaks of common colds resulting. No epidemics. No wide scale illnesses of any sort directly traceable to bombings.

And not even neuroses. In the bombings and all the war strains to date, there has been no increase in mental troubles. The commonest neuroses are anxiety and hysterics, but Dr. Frazier said there are no more of these than in peace.

He traced the complete maintenance of sanity to three causes: One, people are working harder and have no time for the introspection which may bring on nervous troubles, two, the English shelter program was well under way when the bombings began, and while the people were exposed to danger, they felt that something was being done for them; three, racially the English are not much subject to neuroses.

However, it is a significant fact that Liverpool's large foreign population, also showed no sign of panic.

Failure of typhoid epidemics to show up, Dr. Frazier said, was a surprise. The water system was damaged frequently. Carts were substituted to distribute water. The mains were frequently repaired within 24 hours. A factor in preventing typhoid, he said, was the chlorination of the repaired mains before they were placed in service.

Dr. Frazier has an interesting slant on failure of another antipicated health hazard to develop, namely spread of epidemics among children evacuated from their homes. City children were supposed to pick up the country infections, and vice versa. But a part time educational program apparently worked as the preventive.

There has been an increase in the contagious diseases, those, that is, spread by contact from person to person. These diseases included diphtheria, scarlet fever, (mumps, measles, whooping cough, and in some centers the itch and venereal disease. But none of these amounted to epidemics.

STARTING WORK ON NEW BRIDGE

Old Covered Structure To Be Moved Up-stream For Run-around

Preliminary work toward replacing the double wooden bridge over North Fork of Paint Creek on U. S. 22 near New Holland, with a steel structure, was started Friday.

Plans for making a run-around by using the old bridge, moved down stream a few yards, have been changed due to right-of-way difficulties, and the bridge is to be moved up-stream for the run-around.

This made changing of telephone wires necessary, and when this is done the driving of piles to receive the bridge, and constructing approaches of the run-around will get under way.

In the meantime all equipment is on the scene, and a division highway crew has a camp car on the scene where the men will live until the work is finished.

Betty Saum Is Young Hostess To Supper Party

Outstanding in the many social events of the younger set was the lovely dinner party entertained on Friday evening preceding the football game, and which Miss Betty Saum charmingly filled the role of hostess.

The young guests, confined to members of the senior class and the hostess' cousin, Miss Helen Colley, of Columbus, were delighted with the gaiety of the affair, and enjoyed the pleasures so pleasantly provided during the evening.

On a long table and two card tables were prettily appointed for the dinner courses. The large table was covered with a lace cloth, and centered with a water-garden of yellow and white mums. Flanking this were tall yellow tapers in crystal holders. The two smaller tables were similarly appointed. A chili supper and all the accompanying good things were most appealing to the young girls, and the hour an exceptionally gay one.

After the supper the young hostess took her guests to Gardner Park where they witnessed the exciting game between Washington and Bexley.

Good Fellowship Class Meets for Potluck Supper

A pot luck supper and meeting held in the basement of the Church of Christ Friday evening was greatly enjoyed by the members of the Good Fellowship Class of that church.

The supper was served at two long tables, forming a "V" and were beautifully decorated with large bowls of fruit and lighted candles suggestive of the approaching Thanksgiving season. After the supper, a short business meeting was held, conducted by Mr. Ted Irvin, who opened the meeting with devotional class teacher of the group. An enjoyable social hour with games, in charge of Mrs. Donna Carter, rounded out the evening's pleasures.

Rev. and Mrs. Byron Carter were included as guests for the evening.

Wilson Good Cheer

The Good Cheer Community Circle met for an interesting session Friday evening in Wilson School building and enjoyed an exceptionally entertaining program.

Mrs. Hugh Perrill, the vice-president, conducted the business meeting, which was preceded by group singing led by Mrs. Helen Huff, the music instructor.

During the business session, Mrs. Earl Scott tendered her resignation as president of the group, and Mrs. Perrill accepted the presidency. Mrs. George Anderson was elected to fill the office of vice-president of the organization.

Plans were made for the Christmas program and meeting on December 22, with Mrs. Joseph McFadden named as chairman for the treat.

The program leader, Mrs. Earl Wolfe, presented her entertainment, featuring a reading by Zana Cowdrey, and a song and dance, by Phyllis Pittenger. A clever playlet was enacted by Mrs. Wolfe, Mrs. McBrayer and Mrs. Doris Smith and daughter, Wanda Smith. Following this was a dance by Jane Ann.

The meeting adjourned and a most tempting lunch was served by Mrs. Harry Cunningham, Mrs. Earl Scott, and Mrs. J. C. Kibler.

Pretty Party Includes Members And Five Guests

Including Mrs. Fred Rost, Mrs. Eugene Smith, Mrs. Robert Hartman and Mrs. Richard Aue as guests with the members, Mrs. Henry Brownell charmingly complimented her bridge club with a lovely party on Friday afternoon.

Delightful pleasures had been provided by the gracious hostess, and carried out to fulfill the enjoyment of each guest.

A delicious dessert course was served at the small tables, perfect in appointments.

The bridge game progressed with enthusiastic gaiety and at its close, high score awards were presented to Mrs. John Forsythe and Mrs. Eugene Smith.

Meeting and Party Honor Mrs. J. H. Wilson

A farewell party for Mrs. J. H. Wilson who leaves soon to establish her home in Rogers City, Michigan, was held in conjunction with the regular meeting Friday afternoon of Class Number 2 of Grace Church.

Twenty-five members were present in the church parlors to enjoy the afternoon which opened with the regular business meeting and election of officers. In the election Mrs. Frank Christopher was voted president for the coming year, Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, secretary, and Mrs. Lola Gregg, treasurer.

Following this, interesting readings were given by Miss Corda McCafferty and Mrs. C. B. Cox.

A delightful social hour which afforded an opportunity to visit with the honor guest followed the business session, and the class presented a lovely gift to Mrs. Wilson in token of their friendship. Light refreshments were enjoyed, with Mrs. Oliver Baughn, chairman of the social committee, assisted by Mrs. W. S. Foutch.

Three Guests Included at Friday Club

Always a most gracious hostess, Mrs. Frank Jackson extended the hospitality of her lovely home Friday afternoon to her two table bridge club, and included with the members three guests.

The ladies assembled at one-thirty and a delicious salad course of seasonal viands was enjoyed before the game. Mrs. Jackson seated her guests at the dining table which featured a beautiful vari-colored centerpiece of fall chrysanthemums from her garden. Chrysanthemums were placed artistically throughout the home and provided a congenial background for the afternoon's pleasures.

In the interesting bridge game, first prize for high score was presented to Mrs. Selby Gerstner and second prize to Mrs. Margaret Edge.

Mrs. Jackson included Mrs. J. J. Kelley, Mrs. Lydia Williams and Mrs. Margaret Edge as guests with the club.

Informal Party Given After Football Game

Dr. and Mrs. Fred D. Woollard added a delightful small party to their entertaining on Friday evening when they invited a group of friends to their home on Rawling Street for a supper party immediately following the Washington-Bexley football game.

A delicious and most appetizing menu of delicacies, suggestive of the autumn time was served and enjoyed to the utmost.

Informal visiting and jolly conversation until a late hour were enjoyed by everyone.

Shower Party

Mrs. John Penwell graciously entertained a circle of friends honoring her daughter, Mrs. Robert Darby (Edna Mae Penwell) with a miscellaneous shower, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Darby received many beautiful presents for which she graciously thanked each guest.

The guests attending were: Mrs. Clifford Price, Mrs. George Burke, Mrs. Worley Melvin, Mrs. Frank Kaufman, Mrs. A. J. Willson, Mrs. Harold Stewart, Mrs. George Lower, Mrs. Ora Daniels. The out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Lee Shuster, of Frankfort; Mrs. Ray Young, Mrs. Raymond Fisher and Mr. Robert E. Scott, of Chillicothe, and Mrs. Lon Penwell, of Columbus.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Assisting her were Mrs. Clifford Price and Mrs. George Burke.

On the Farm

By Thomas E. Berry

Of course you will need to heat the water a little, so it won't freeze, during the cold weather that is so near to us. There are many types of heaters on the market, but one of the best and most inexpensive is a simple cylinder pail, with a coal oil burner under it, and enclosed so that there is no danger from fire.

SOME PRACTICAL IDEAS ABOUT POULTRY—Here are some practical ideas and suggestions that I got from a poultry meeting, given by a well informed authority, that I thought would be of interest to our readers at this time:

OVERCROWDING—"This is being done in a big way this year, for production is being stepped up for all poultry products, and the temptation to put too many hens into the laying house is hard to resist, but it is an unprofitable thing to do.

"Remember to hold to the rule of allowing four square feet of floor space per hen."

WET MASH AT NOON—One of the most successful farmers I know, who has a reputation in his community of being a "chicken man" says that it always pays him to put a little moist mash in the hoppers, and on top of the dry mash, at noon on cold days, for this encourages eating and then it enables him to get more water into the flock, which is very important.

This man says that making the wet mash is very simple and takes very little of his time. All he does is to put about a gallon of the mash he feeds in the hoppers in each bucket, add enough warm water to make a moist mash, that sticks together well, and then spread it on the dry mash in the feeders.

I saw him feed the flock one day and before I left the hens were crowding about the feeders, and very few were eating, when we first went into the building.

HOW LONG SHOULD YOU KEEP A GOOD HEN—That's a question Mrs. Berry asked the men who were culling her chickens. "We have put on as many as four bands, one for each year we culled a flock, and sometimes we have put on five," one of the men answered.

We are learning to keep a profitable hen two years and sometimes much longer than we did a few years ago. When the culling is done in the late fall, and you can tell by the appearance of the bird, that she has been producing heavily, and is still in a vigorous, healthy condition; there is very little reason for selling her, unless you are in need of more space.

FARM LABOR COMMITTEE

A farm labor committee was formed early in the year which interviewed prospective farm applicants listed at the U. S. Employment Office and the committee made the report that there was every evidence that a shortage of year-round farm labor and especially skilled labor would become acute in the county.

The committee has just recently completed another labor survey for the county as a part of their work.

County Agent Montgomery reported that before the close of the year, livestock feeding schools would be held which would pertain largely to the necessity of using hog and poultry supplements made almost entirely with the absence of animal proteins.

The work of the Ohio Experiment Station and the College of Agriculture will be used extensively in these feeding schools.

The general Farmers' Institutes of the county will be geared over to war institutes, also.

The general report for the past year was printed and given to those in attendance at the meeting.

Montgomery submitted a lengthy report showing the extensive activities in his department the past year, which has meant untiring effort practically every day and a great many nights to carry through.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX BUDGET

Two copies of the Tax Budget as tentatively adopted for Fayette County, Ohio, are on file in the office of the County Auditor of said county. Markets And FinanceGRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—(P)—Small profit taking sales, attracted by the week's rally in grain prices, were offset by scattered commercial buying in today's market and quotations held about steady at the opening.

County Extension Agent and other Federal Government agencies within the county.

The first point of attack on the agricultural program was the one of food and immediately a food for victory program was launched. As a result of the work of the war boards in the various counties, farmers responded to this call for more food and one of the greatest food production years in the history of the nation will be recorded at the end of 1942.

The war boards of the county have later been given the responsibility of farm building authorization and the setting up of farm machinery rationing committees and farm truck transportation committees.

In the efforts to be made for greater food production at the beginning of the year, one of the first major jobs was to carry out a farm machinery repair program. Meetings were held with all implement dealers, repair men, blacksmiths and welders and a farm machinery repair chart was sent to every farmer in the county.

Previous to combining the county's more than 12,000 acres of soybeans, a combine clinic was held which was attended by over 125 combine owners and operators.

VICTORY GARDENS

A definite program through the Victory Gardens was carried out which involved the growing of sufficient vegetables both for fresh use and for canning to meet the families' vegetable requirements throughout the year. The program was carried on through the schools, the 4-H Clubs and the township key women of the county. Several meetings were held to acquaint the leaders with the Victory Garden Program.

After the setting up of the Victory Gardens, a county nutrition committee was formed which organized and held 14 canning demonstrations in the county. This committee also functioned in educating housewives to the use of foods particularly rich in minerals, vitamins and body building substances.

NEIGHBORHOOD LEADERS

During April and May a meeting was held in each township at which time the township was subdivided as to roads and neighborhood communities and some one appointed as neighborhood leader in each respective community. There are over a hundred of these neighborhood leaders in the county carrying a definite responsibility in connection with the general war program as it affects the farms and the homes.

Neighborhood leaders were responsible for the bond campaign in the rural areas and pledges of over $90,000 for the purchase of bonds and stamps was turned in by these farm folks.

FARM LABOR COMMITTEE

A farm labor committee was formed early in the year which interviewed prospective farm applicants listed at the U. S. Employment Office and the committee made the report that there was every evidence that a shortage of year-round farm labor and especially skilled labor would become acute in the county.

The committee has just recently completed another labor survey for the county as a part of their work.

County Agent Montgomery reported that before the close of the year, livestock feeding schools would be held which would per-

The work of the Ohio Experiment Station and the College of Agriculture will be used extensively in these feeding schools.

The general Farmers' Institutes of the county will be geared over to war institutes, also.

The general report for the past year was printed and given to those in attendance at the meeting.

Montgomery submitted a lengthy report showing the extensive activities in his department the past year, which has meant untiring effort practically every day and a great many nights to carry through.

Legion Outlines Plans for Armistice Day Here

WORLD AT WAR GIVES DEEPER MEANING NOW

Observance To Be Held at Schools and Flag Raised at New War Plant

Plans for the first wartime observance of Armistice Day today were nearing completion in Washington C. H. with the Paul H. Hughey Post of the American Legion as the motivating spirit.

R. L. Bangham of Wilmington, a former state representative and finance director who is now connected with the Ohio Welfare Department, is to address a gathering of high school students in the high school auditorium, at 1:30 P. M., Herbert Wilson, the post commander said as he outlined plans for the many-sided observance of the anniversary of the ending of the first World War.

During the morning Legionnaires are to go to most of the schools, both in Washington C. H. and throughout the county, to tell the boys and girls of their heritage as Americans and the price that has been paid that they might have the freedom they now enjoy. For years, the Legionnaires have been appearing before the school children on Armistice Day but this year, with the World again at war, it takes on a deeper meaning, in the eyes of the former soldiers who know what it means to face death.

In the afternoon, the Legion is to present an American flag to the city's biggest war industry—The Aeronautical Products, Inc. The presentation is scheduled for 1:30 P. M. at the plant on South Fayette Street.

In the evening, the Legionnaires will gather at their club rooms in Memorial Hall to march in a body to the Court House lawn, where, in the shadows of the memorial monument, the annual Armistice Day tribute will be paid to the boys who went to the first World War from here a quarter of a century ago and did not come back. Officers of the post and members of the executive committee and officers of the Legion Auxiliary are to conduct these services while the Legionnaires, members of the Auxiliary and those of the expected public gathering stand with bared heads. These services, which have been a part of the observance of Armistice Day for years, will be brief.

With the conclusion of the day's program, the former soldiers are to have their customary get-together at their club rooms where a lunch will be served while they talk over their experiences in the first World War and discuss developments of the second which now has the universe in its grip.

MISS SNAPP DIES DURING THE NIGHT

Had Resided in Fayette County Most of Life

Miss Leah Belle Snapp, 83, died Friday night at 12:05 A. M. at the Smith Rest Home on Market Street, where she had been a patient for sometime.

Miss Snapp had spent nearly all of her life in Fayette County, and leaves many friends in the community. She had resided on the Lewis road for many years, and had been in ill health for the past 13 months.

Two weeks ago Miss Snapp fell and fractured her right leg, the injuries hastening her death.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Ellis Edmondson, of Greenfield, and a brother Alonzo Snapp, of this city. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Friends may call at the Kleeve Funeral Home at any time.

Funeral services will be held at the funeral home Tuesday at 3 P. M. and burial made in the Washington C. H. Cemetery.

COUNTY RECEIVES SEVERAL CHECKS

State and Federal Funds Reach Auditor

County Auditor Roy Baughn is in receipt of checks from the State and Federal governments for aid to dependent children and blind relief for the month of November.

For aid to dependent children, the estate sent a check for $603.89 and the federal government $895.18.

For blind relief the state sent a check for $183.87 and the federal government $541.50.

A large proportion of the world's flower seeds are raised near Lompoc, California.

County Courts

SUES FOR DIVORCE

Charging extreme cruelty, Gladys Smith has filed suit for divorce from Edwin Smith, and asks custody of their minor child.

Parties were married at Flemingsburg, Ky., January 1, 1936 and plaintiff states defendant told her in October, 1942, that he would no longer support her. Property rights have been agreed upon, it is stated. Joseph H. Harper represents the plaintiff in the suit.

STATE SUES TONG

The State of Ohio, in a suit filed in common pleas court here makes Donald E. Tong, former local cafeteria operator, defendant and asks judgment amounting to $188.69 with interest, as result of the alleged failure of the defendant to pay into the Unemployment Compensation fund the foregoing amount.

The fund is due for August through December in 1937, all of 1938 and part of 1939.

Plaintiff states that the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation on September 28, 1942, made findings against Tong, and that such findings have not been paid, so the matter was placed in the hands of Attorney General, Thomas J. Herbert, who, with M. L. Schellenberger, brought the suit.

SCHOOL SPEAKER FOR MEETING HERE

Plans Expanded for Session Of Community Council

The program committee for the Fayette County Community Council, an organization made up of officers of the Parent-Teacher Association units and School Community groups and the district superintendents and school principals, was jubilant Saturday over the enhanced prospects for what they termed "one of the best meetings yet" to be held at the Wilson School, starting with a pot luck supper at 7 P. M. Monday.

Word had just been received at the office of W. J. Hilly, the superintendent of the county schools, that Delbert Woodford, executive secretary to the state director of education, Kenneth Ray, had made arrangements to come here to address the meeting.

The rest of the meeting is to be devoted to an exchange of ideas designed to improve and expand the activities in the county schools.

SHOT GUN SHELLS TO BE COLLECTED

Girl's Conservation Club Is Sponsoring Collection

The Girls Conservation Club of the Washington C. H. High School, of which Alice Lee Montgomery is the president, has taken over the job of collecting shotgun shells in Washington C. H.

Containers will be placed in the various places of business in the city, and possibly in filling stations, and all who have any empty shotgun shells are asked to leave them at one of the places.

The shotgun shells are being collected throughout the county, as part of the war effort.

The girls accepted the job at the request of County Salvage Chairman, Maynard Craig, and school organizations in other parts of the county may also take part in the campaign for empty shells.

COMING FEATURES AT THE THEATERS

Once again laughter and music hold sway as the Washington C. H. theaters plan another week devoted to the lighter side of life and romance.

State Theater

It is not often that an Irving Berlin musical hits the screen, but there is one coming to the State Theater on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Bing Crosby shares starring honors with nimble-footed Fred Astaire in "Holiday Inn." Together they sing and dance to eleven hit tunes, one of which is Easter Parade. The second picture on the week-opening bill is "Letter from Bataan," starring Richard Arlen. It is a startling drama of the early days of the war.

Your favorite crooning cowboy, Gene Autry, and his sidekick, Smiley Burnette, dash in on Wednesday and Thursday in "Home in Wyoming." The second feature of the double bill is, "Not a Lady's Man," based on the psychology of a woman hater who thinks it is time to fall in love.

Johnny Mack Brown and Tex Ritter in "Deep in the Heart of Texas," "The Iron Claw" and a Disney cartoon are booked for Friday and Saturday at the State.

Fayette Theater

A hot time in the cold town is assured when scintillating Sonja Henie goes skating after a lusty leatherneck who is AWOL from love in "Ice-land" scheduled for the Fayette Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This frozen fairytale is heated by the swing and sway rhythms of Sammy Kay and his orchestra. John Payne is the lucky marine who falls easy prey to Sonja's charms despite the interference of Jack Oakie, his buffooning pal.

Down-to-earth screenfare with a romance running through it, introduces a new comedy team to the public in "Tish," based on the beloved character created by Mary Roberts Rinehart, and which brings Marjorie Main to the screen as the redoubtable Letitia Carberry, with Zazu Pitts in support. It will be at the Fayette Theater on Wednesday and Thursday.

DRIVER FINED USUAL IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Facing a charge of driving while intoxicated, filed by a member of the Highway Patrol, Charles Forsha, city, was fined $100 and costs by Judge S. A. Murry, in municipal court.

Judge Murry suspended $50 of the fine, pending good behavior. Forsha was arrested Thursday night.

In army aviation circles, "he built a wooden horse," means someone made a shattering plane landing.

A railway tank car can haul only the fuel oil needed to heat four homes for a year.

SMIDLEY HOG FEEDERS

Are temporarily available to Fayette County farmers. Out-of-the-county shipments are now frozen. If you need hog feeders to handle your production during the remainder of the calendar year, 1942, including increased or new production planned and needed as a contribution to the current agricultural need, better get them at once, for they will be scarce and hard to get when this temporary freezing order is lifted and national distribution of our limited quota begins.

We are booking the out-of-county-and-state orders for shipment after the freezing order is lifted, subject to National Rationing Order.

SHOW PUT ON BY BAND FOR FOOTBALL FANS

Jam Session Held and 'Daddy' Played in Honor of Dads Of Blue Lions

The Washington C. H. High School Band, under the direction of Paul E. Fitzwater, surprised the large crowd of football fans gathered at Gardner Park Friday night, by having a small-scale "jam session" in the middle of the field. The band "swung through" "Daddy," in honor of the team members' fathers in seats alongside the players' bench.

The band did nothing unusual before the game but really gave the fans a show during the half.

Before the game, after forming a small "V" at one end of the field, the band marched up through the "V" playing "America" and stopped about half way down the field to play "The Star Spangled Banner." After this they marched off playing one of WHS's pep songs, "Go Washington."

At the half they formed the letters D A D D Y, making one letter at a time and floating them down the field. After coming back up the field the band just mixed up and came out in a semi-circle where they gave a swing arrangement of "Daddy."

The band made a large "B" before the Bexley stands and played the school song and then marched over to the Washington stands where a large "W" was made and the "Alma Mater" played and sung.

When they left the field, the fans were in higher spirits and were ready to sit through the exciting second half of the game.

They will begin practicing Monday afternoon on some new maneuvers for the Circleville game here next week.
